Managing risk together

ORX News

Whether you're looking to enrich your operational risk loss data, train employees on what could happen or enhance your scenario development, ORX News can help.

How it works

Speedy global media scanning

The ORX News team of specialist multi-lingual researchers seek out operational risk loss events from financial institutions around the globe.

Detailed but concise summaries

The loss events are translated into English and written into a one-page summary by the ORX News team, giving you the important information at a glance, including business lines, event type, causes, ORX Reference Taxonomy category and more.

The summaries are available within 72 hours (24 hours for the headline) and can be read online or downloaded to read later and share with your colleagues - a great way to build risk awareness and knowledge!

Easy searching & reporting

Easily find the events you're looking for with advanced search functionality. Filter by category, business line and event type, or search by keyword.

Save time and effort by saving your searches, setting up email alerts and exporting reports to CSV, XLSX and PDF.

Integrate the data with your own systems

Automatically pull ORX News data into your systems (e.g. your GRC platform) with an API. Use the API to seamlessly pull through information and enhance your existing operational risk reports and dashboards.

The hub that puts global loss events at your fingertips

Focused on financial services

ORX News is a service created by the world's leading operational risk management association in the financial sector - ORX. We've developed it to specifically meet the needs of financial organisations. This means we focus on operational risk loss events in financial services and provide the context and information you need.

We also cover high-impact cyber events from other sectors to provide you with insight into this priority risk.

Free Deep Dives

Deep Dives give you the chance to explore specific loss events in more detail. As an ORX News subscriber, you'll be able to request Deep Dives on stories you're especially interested in. You'll also be able to access our library of over 100 Deep Dives already written for other subscribers.

Analysis & industry trends

The ORX News team provide you with further insights and in-depth analysis pieces so you can see the big picture of what's happening across the whole industry. This includes monthly top 5 round-ups, quarterly digests and blog pieces.

Customised to your interests

You have the ability to save filters and set your own notifications. Decide yourself what kind of events you want to be notified about (with numerous filters to choose from), whether to receive email alerts, and how often. Emails alerting you to matching loss events can be sent immediately, daily or on a weekly basis.
